To Whom It May Concern,

I am grateful for the opportunity to recommend the professional development of Michael Fenton. As a program administrator in a Pennsylvania Intermediate Unit, I am charged with finding and providing effective professional development opportunities for the teachers of my county. I sought out Michael as a possible person to be part of our yearly math speaker series. From our initial contact to the presentation to the follow-up conversation, Michael was easy to work with, respectful and knowledgeable about what effective instruction in mathematics looks and sounds like. Michael listened to what I wanted for the professional development session and created a presentation that exceeded my expectations.

Michael brought a wealth of knowledge to his presentation. He effectively interacted with and engaged his audience while being very approachable. His experience as a classroom teacher allowed him to easily relate to his audience and provide them with instructional techniques that they could use the next day in their classrooms. Michael opened the teachers' eyes to minor tweaks they could make in their instructional delivery that would make a major impact with their students. He was able to show how technology could seamlessly integrate within the math curriculum to enhance the students' mathematical abilities and knowledge of the content.

It is without reservation that I would recommend Michael Fenton as a provider of mathematics professional development and look forward to the possibility of working with him in the future.

Sincerely,

Stephanie Schwab
